The Russian Army in Germany
Approved For Release 2008/02/04 : CIA-RDP83-00418R004000060005-5

1. Operations have been suspended at Hagenow airfield; no air-planes are stationed at the field, and no kind of air traffic is taking place in the Hagenow area. 25X1
2. The barracks are completely filled - see the drawing - and it is estimated that approximately 5,000 Russians with families are stationed in the object. The majority of the men wear red shoulder loops. At the present time the Russians are especially occupied with teaching soldiers to drive trucks.
3. The following motor vehicles are placed in the garages:
About 180 new trucks, light infantry arms, machine guns, mortars, anti-tank guns with pear-shaped muzzle brake, guns without muzzle brake.

So far only one amphibian vehicle has been seen, but there may possibly be more.

COMMENT

Parts of 94 INF DIV (G): 283 INF REG (G) and 132 FAR (H) are stationed here. It is also assumed that Hagenow airfield is the headquarters of a radar unit in the EW-net.
